The Acid Capitalist Podcast

Hugh Hendry is a writer, risk-taker, and thought leader on global capital markets. In 2002 he founded Eclectica Asset Management, a hedge fund that delivered uncorrelated returns to clients for over a decade. His prescience in anticipating the Great Financial Crisis of 2008 earned him a reputation as a prophetic iconoclast. A social media sensation, Hendry is now influencing a new generation of market makers with his successful podcast, viral social media posts, and appearances on Bloomberg, the Economist, and Institutional Investor, among others. An avid surfer, Hendry resides in St. Barts, where he is a leading investor in luxury real estate.
